

Effective immediately, the redemption of cans and bottles at our store will cease for the duration of our state's disaster emergency.

Our primary concern is the safety of our employees, our customers and the public. We believe this is a necessary step in halting the progression of the COVID-19 epidemic.

Governor Reynolds signed a Proclamation of Disaster Emergency continuing the proclamation signed on March 9, allowing retailers that sell liquor, beer, wine, carbonated beverages, and other beverages with an Iowa beverage container deposit to stop accepting empty cans and bottles for the duration of this disaster emergency.

Thank you for your cooperation and understanding.
